Cargo Transport Insurance

Lately, we have again been noticing a tendency which worries us: more and more customers decide to ship their cargo without coverage of a cargo insurance. Although this may seem cost-saving at first sight, the problems which occur in case of an irregularity (damage, loss, etc) are often a far bigger disadvantage.

Not only will it be difficult to determine which party you should have to claim from (given the large number of parties in the transport chain), but even more important: even if one of the parties does accept liability, it will often be limited as per the applicable conditions in the relevant stage of transport. This may leave you with only a tiny part of the actual value of the shipment. On the contrary, if you do arrange a cargo transport insurance, your insurer will most of the times indemnify you for the amount claimed (commercial value) without any problem.

As an additional service, Cleve & Zonen can arrange a cargo transport insurance at competitive rates.
